

Request for Thesis/Dissertation Embargo

An academic embargo is a time-based restriction on the release and availability of a thesis or dissertation due to proprietary or sensitive data and/or pending or intended publication. Authors are encouraged to talk with their thesis/dissertation committee chairpersons, the Office of Innovation and Management, and the UL Lafayette Graduate School to determine if an embargo is right for them. To request an embargo, the thesis/dissertation author must complete this form in consultation with their thesis/ dissertation chair and submit the completed form to the Graduate School for approval. Although embargo requests will be considered at any time, authors are strongly encouraged to submit their requests when submitting the applications for candidacy.
